

SEC Disclosure Form ADV Part II

According to Rule 204-3 (the “brochure rule”) of the Investment Advisors Act of 1940, the information contained in the SEC Form ADV Part II must be provided to prospective Advisory clients prior to entering into a contract.

The purpose of this document is to inform you of all material aspects of our firm's advisory services, fees, and key personnel. That information is provided herein.

Safeguarding Your Confidential Information

KMS does not sell your personal information to anyone; nor does KMS share your information with anyone except as required or permitted by law or as implicitly authorized by you. Certain information may be shared with sponsors of financial products and services you select. For example, if you invest in a mutual fund through KMS, you may complete an application that KMS forwards to that fund company.

KMS receives information about you in the normal course of providing financial services. This information is usually communicated to KMS by you or your Representative. If you or another financial institution (mutual fund, insurance company, clearing agent, or advisory firm) designate KMS as dealer of record for an account, that institution may provide KMS with related personal information.

KMS maintains physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards to protect your privacy. Access to your personal information is restricted to those employees and agents who need the information to provide the products and services you have selected.

KMS may permit your Representative to maintain access to your personal information to facilitate continuity of effective service to you in the event your Representative chooses to affiliate with a firm other than KMS.

KMS maintains a Business Continuity Plan (available upon request) describing how it intends to respond to possible significant business disruptions such as a natural disaster, power failure, or civil unrest. If a disruption affects the KMS Home Office, you should expect continued access to the company actually holding your investments (mutual fund family, clearing firm, insurance company, etc.). Also, you may want to contact your KMS Representative and/or www.kms.com or www.kmsfinancial.com (if operable), for updated information.

Account Protection: If you hold a brokerage account through KMS at Pershing LLC, that account is protected up to the total amount held in the account. Of this total, the Securities Investor Protection Corporation (SIPC) provides $500,000 of coverage, including $100,000 for claims for cash. Remaining coverage is provided by Pershing LLC through a commercial insurer. Account protection applies when a SIPC member firm fails financially and cannot meet its obligations to securities customers. It does not protect against losses from the rise and fall in market value of investments. You may obtain information about SIPC, including the SIPC brochure, by contacting SIPC at www.SIPC.org, or at (202) 371-8300.

Background Information on Investment Professionals: FINRA maintains an online tool to help investors check the background of investment professionals (securities firms and brokers) called BrokerCheck. For more information on this resource, a BrokerCheck brochure is available at www.finra.org or you may call the BrokerCheck Hotline at (800) 289-9999.

Part II, Page 5: 11B	Some Advisors have the discretion to require a minimum planning fee for an initial appointment. Such minimum will be described in writing by the Advisor. Most Advisors elect not to vote proxies on behalf of clients. If an Advisor chooses to offer this service to clients, such clients must authorize KMS and the Advisor to do so through the relevant contract or agreement. Clients may obtain a copy of the KMS Proxy Voting Policies and also may obtain information as to how proxies were voted on their behalf. Reporting: Accounts under Portfolio Monitoring and Consulting Services receive statements from the custodian who holds the account (Charles Schwab & Co., Inc., Pershing LLC, or TD Ameritrade) as well as reports from their Advisor. Clients under Tactical Monitoring Services receive statements from the custodian, insurance company, or mutual fund company who hold the account as well as reports from their Advisor. Clients under the Portfolio Monitor Client Services Agreement and Wrap Program receive Quarterly Performance Reviews from Pershing, LLC. Clients under SubAdvisor relationships and Third Party Advisor relationships receive statements from the various custodians who hold their accounts as well as reports from the SubAdvisor or Third Party Advisor.
Part II, Page 6: 12.A.(1)(2) 12.B	Through the applicable advisory contract, some clients have granted discretionary trading authority to KMS and its Advisors. However, such transactions involve only limited transaction charges (commissions) that do not accrue to the benefit of the Advisor. In some instances Advisors also act as the Broker. Best Execution: As an investment advisory firm, KMS has a duty to seek best execution for client transactions. While best execution is difficult to define and challenging to measure, there is some consensus that it does not solely mean the achievement of the best price on a given transaction. Rather, it appears to be a collective consideration of factors concerning the trade in question. Such factors include the security being traded, the price of the trade, the speed of the execution, apparent conditions of the market at the time the trade is placed, including the float and efficiency of the market, the need of the particular client or clients and the price of the trade. KMS seeks to obtain best execution for its clients' transactions, which may not necessarily mean the best price or lowest commission available but the best overall qualitative execution in the particular circumstances. Trade Aggregation: On some occasions a KMS Advisor will execute client transactions on a block or aggregate basis. That is, they enter one large trade and allocate the shares among various client accounts. This technique may allow an Advisor to execute transactions in a more timely, equitable and efficient manner in an attempt to achieve a better overall price execution for a group of clients. KMS' policy is to allow its Advisors to engage in this technique when it's consistent with the manner in which that particular Advisor conducts his or her investment advisory activities. Clients participating in any aggregated transactions will receive an average share price on a pro-rata basis. Trade Allocation: KMS' trade allocation policies and procedures call for a fair and equitable method of allocating trades among accounts with no particular client(s) or groups of clients being favored or disfavored. Generally an Advisor must identify a given block trade allocation before that trade is entered. If the trade is filled as entered, the Advisor must allocate according to the pre-determined block. If issues arise relating to successfully filling such allocation pursuant to the pre-determined block, the Advisor must allocate the shares in a fair and equitable manner and document

Such documentation needs to be shared with KMS and retained. Trade Errors: KMS has the responsibility to execute orders correctly, promptly and in the best interest of its clients. In the event an error occurs in the handling of a trade due to KMS or Advisor's action or inaction, KMS' will seek to promptly identify and correct such error without disadvantaging the client or clients involved. KMS and Advisors may receive compensation from mutual fund companies in the form of 12b1 fees.
